

Cadwalader Park Birding Walk!

Please join birding expert NJ Conservation Officer Jordan Parham on our 5th annual birding walk in Trenton's crown jewel – Cadwalader Park! We expect to see a wide array of species visiting the park during the spring migration including Warblers, Redstarts, Orioles and other beautiful birds!

What: A bird walk and introduction to the joy of birding in our Capital City and beyond.

When: Saturday May 2, 2026 8am (Rain date May 9)

Where: Meet along Cadwalader Drive at Stanley Avenue in Trenton

We will learn to identify birds by both sight and sound and will discuss proper binocular techniques. Binoculars will be provided

Admission is free but registration is required. Please sign up for the event at www.njconservation.org/event/2026-cadwalader-park-bird-walk/

EVERYONE is invited and WELCOME!

All people / all ages/ from everywhere, please join us.

This walk is part of the Hannah Corbin Carter and Ogden B. Carter Urban Birding Program made possible by the generosity of a family member
